

Michael Chen

PERSONAL WEBSITE

Portfolio

Purpose:

I will use this website mainly as a personal website where people can find my personal information (much like a resume) and it's also a way to contact me.

Competitors:

Other people who is trying to get the same job as I do. this website has to look better than other people's so I can get a greater chance in getting the job. the picture above is the banner I made for the website.

Users:

My future employees, I will post link of this portfolio on my resumes, so if they want, they can definitely check out this website.

More Info

This website will have a single and elegant flat design, just because it looks fantastic. I'm not a designer and I'm not even major in any design-related major, but I feel like this would be the website that people like – California beach on the banner, simple and neat fonts, full of the spirit of artist. Who doesn't like California, anyway?